

Les dossiers de l'enseignement scolaire ■ Les sections internationales ■ Direction générale de l'enseignement scolaire ■ Département des relations européennes et internationales ■ Ministère de l'éducation nationale ■ Contact : dgesco.dei@education.gouv.fr ■ octobre 2012 ■ Conception graphique : Délégation à la communication ■ Photographies : Joan Bardeletti, Bruno Fert, Sophie Brändström, Patrick Gaillardin, Xavier Schwebel/Picturetank - Philippe Devernay/MEN ■ Impression : MEN - 2 500 exemplaires

Files on School Education ■ The International Sections ■ Directorate General for Schools ■ European and International Relations Unit ■ Ministry of National Education ■ Contact : dgesco.dei@education.gouv.fr ■ octobre 2012 ■ Graphic Conception: Delegation of communication ■ photographs : Joan Bardeletti, Bruno Fert, Sophie Brändström, Patrick Gaillardin, Xavier Schwebel/Picturetank - Philippe Devernay/MEN ■ Printing : Printing Office of MEN - 2 500 copies

eduscol.education.fr/dossiers

DOSSIERS DE
L'ENSEIGNEMENT
SCOLAIRE

FILES ON SCHOOL EDUCATION

 Les sections internationales

 The international Sections

2012

EDUSCOL.
EDUCATION.FR/
DOSSIERS

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are illiterate has increased from 1.1 billion to 1.5 billion.

There are a number of reasons for this. One is that the population of the world is growing. Another is that the number of people who are illiterate in the developed world is increasing. This is because of the aging population and the fact that many people in the developed world are not reading or writing. In the developing world, the number of illiterate people is increasing because of the high birth rate and the fact that many children do not go to school.

There are a number of ways to reduce the number of illiterate people in the world. One way is to improve the quality of education. Another way is to provide more opportunities for people to learn to read and write. This can be done through community-based programs and through the use of technology.

It is important to reduce the number of illiterate people in the world because illiteracy is a major barrier to economic development and social progress. People who cannot read and write are often unable to find jobs, access services, or participate in community activities.

There are a number of organizations that are working to reduce the number of illiterate people in the world. These organizations include the United Nations, the World Bank, and a number of non-governmental organizations. These organizations are working to improve the quality of education and to provide more opportunities for people to learn to read and write.

It is important to continue to work to reduce the number of illiterate people in the world. This is because illiteracy is a major barrier to economic development and social progress. People who cannot read and write are often unable to find jobs, access services, or participate in community activities.

There are a number of ways to reduce the number of illiterate people in the world. One way is to improve the quality of education. Another way is to provide more opportunities for people to learn to read and write. This can be done through community-based programs and through the use of technology.

It is important to reduce the number of illiterate people in the world because illiteracy is a major barrier to economic development and social progress. People who cannot read and write are often unable to find jobs, access services, or participate in community activities.

There are a number of organizations that are working to reduce the number of illiterate people in the world. These organizations include the United Nations, the World Bank, and a number of non-governmental organizations. These organizations are working to improve the quality of education and to provide more opportunities for people to learn to read and write.

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are illiterate has increased from 1.1 billion to 1.5 billion.

There are a number of reasons for this. One is that the population of the world is growing. Another is that the number of people who are illiterate in the developed world is increasing. This is because of the aging population and the fact that many people in the developed world are not reading or writing. In the developing world, the number of illiterate people is increasing because of the high birth rate and the fact that many children do not go to school.

There are a number of ways to reduce the number of illiterate people in the world. One way is to improve the quality of education. Another way is to provide more opportunities for people to learn to read and write. This can be done through community-based programs and through the use of technology.

It is important to reduce the number of illiterate people in the world because illiteracy is a major barrier to economic development and social progress. People who cannot read and write are often unable to find jobs, access services, or participate in community activities.

There are a number of organizations that are working to reduce the number of illiterate people in the world. These organizations include the United Nations, the World Bank, and a number of non-governmental organizations. These organizations are working to improve the quality of education and to provide more opportunities for people to learn to read and write.

It is important to continue to work to reduce the number of illiterate people in the world. This is because illiteracy is a major barrier to economic development and social progress. People who cannot read and write are often unable to find jobs, access services, or participate in community activities.

There are a number of ways to reduce the number of illiterate people in the world. One way is to improve the quality of education. Another way is to provide more opportunities for people to learn to read and write. This can be done through community-based programs and through the use of technology.

It is important to reduce the number of illiterate people in the world because illiteracy is a major barrier to economic development and social progress. People who cannot read and write are often unable to find jobs, access services, or participate in community activities.

There are a number of organizations that are working to reduce the number of illiterate people in the world. These organizations include the United Nations, the World Bank, and a number of non-governmental organizations. These organizations are working to improve the quality of education and to provide more opportunities for people to learn to read and write.